Building School At Demonstration Farm

The Provincial Government are erecting a school building on the Farm. It will be $45,843. A large and commodious basement will be used for a blacksmith shop, a carpenter shop, and a washroom for the boys who may attend the school. The first floor will be devoted to the boys' school, a principal room, a room for the teacher, the second floor with girls' classroom, kitchen and parlour, will be used for the holding of classes in Domestic Science, etc., for the girls who may attend and the upper floor will be arranged for an assembly hall where meetings may be held. The building will be erected in harmony with the buildings already erected. The work is advancing as rapidly as labor can be secured and it is expected that the building will be ready for use by the New Year.

James-Pentland

On Wednesday afternoon at Christ church an interesting and pretty wedding took place when Miss Clara Anna Pentland, daughter of Mr. and Charles Walter James, of Clareholm, were united in holy wedlock. Rev. G. Bathurst Hill performed the ceremony and the organ and beautifully rendered the Bridal Chorus from Leopoldini's Wedding March before and after the service respectively. The bride was a slender girl dressed in a "W" shaped vest of fine cream lace and lace frills on the sleeves and beige feathered with a white ostrich feather. Mrs. T. W. Wilton, who acted as matron of honor, wore a suit of black velvet with a picture hat of amber velvet, lined with black velvet and trimmed with black willow.

Herbert Moore, uncle of the bride, gave her away.

T. W. Wilton accompanied the bridegroom to the church.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton to which only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were invited. The dining-table was set very prettily centered by a three-tier wedding cake surrounded by silver bells, while cut glass vases were filled with lovely yellow chrysanthemums.

Later in the evening the happy couple left for Nelson B.C., where the honeymoon will be spent.—
Madeline Spectator.

The wedding presents were numerous and costly.

Granum Pastor Leaves

Rev. A. O. Paterson of the Presbyterian Church, Granum has been appointed to one of the pulpits in Vancouver and will leave for that place shortly. Mr. Paterson's removal from Granum is much regretted not only by his congregation but by the town generally where his genial smile and manner have made him a general favorite.

Laid to Rest in Oshawa with Appropriate Masonic Rite

In a letter received by Rev. Simpson from a former resident of Clareholm, H. J. Stuart, who is in Toronto at present, some additional details have been received concerning the death of Mr. Cornwall. According to the letter Mr. Cornwall was in one of the large eight-seating boxes where street cars run along sides. The automobile again ran into the bus and thrown in a half circle over 50 feet. Mr. Cornwall, who was on the right of the rear seat was hurled out and back of his head struck the curb, crushing his skull. He also received a bad cut on his face. He died upon arrival at the hospital without gaining consciousness. The body was sent to Oshawa, where he was visiting in October, and of the incident in the paper and phone the wife of Mrs. Cornwall's brother, who resides in that city. He identified the body and accompanied the remains to Oshawa. The blow prostrated Mrs. Cornwall when she received the sad news. She was unable to rise, she being up remarkably well. The funeral was a large one, about 75 of the brother Masons being in attendance. Three of these acted as bearers along with three of Mrs. Cornwall's brothers. Services were held in the church and the Masonic rites were read at the grave. The casket was made of wood from Cain Lodge, Clareholm, being a very nice one two of the heads of the Canadian Bank of Commerce attended from Toronto.

President of Alberta University.

This, however, took first prize.

A Vancouver firm have already bid for the whole of it.

Mr. Tattinger's plan is to raise his crop on summer fallow.

He divides his firm into three parts.

One-third last year's summer fallow, one crop is sown, one-third is in summer fallow and on the remaining one-third, a second crop is sown.

Two years ago a second crop is sown.

By this means two-thirds of his land is always ready for the sowing.

It leaves only one-third to decide for preparing the soil.

Even with this system which seems to work well, there is still a great deal to be done.

For instance, in this latter case what is the finest barley seen for many a day.

Samples sent to an expert in Calgary were graded as No. 1 Extra.

It weighs 56 lbs. At the Dry Farming

That the proper methods of cultivation being followed certainly produces better crops, enhanced yield is proven by the results of the threshing on the farm of Nick Tattinger, some miles east of town. From 50 acres sown in winter wheat the return was 2000 bushels of grain and it graded No. 2. His spring wheat will go 40 bushels on summer fallow.

Mr. Tattinger is proudly proud of his farm.

He has a fine farm, a fine farm.

OBITUARY

Our town was saddened last Monday morning on learning of the passing of still another of our old residents in the person of Park Duncan in the 64th year of his age. Although he had been in poor health for some years past the end came unexpected.

As mentioned in a recent issue of the paper he received a special visit of the Methodist Church on Saturday morning, he broke suddenly that his heart a compression of his chest. He fell asleep awakening at 6 when he complained of increased pain and suffocation from which he did not rally, and sank to his eternal rest at 7:45 a.m.

The deceased was the son of the late Paul Duncan, Sr., of the Olympia Lodge which he founded on the old homestead, 2nd line east and died in this town a few years ago.

He has been associated with the firm of A. Duncan & Co. for nearly half a century, and was a member of the firm at the time of his death.

Besides his widow the deceased leaves an adult family of three sons and two daughters: Harwood, Clarence, and Fred, all of whom are here; Mrs. Gordon Hughes, Harrow, and Mrs. Joseph Stoddard, Petrolia. The funeral is being held this Thursday afternoon from the family residence North Broadway. The deceased was a consistent and life long member of the Methodist Church, and a member of the good standing of Beaver Lodge No. 14, A. O. U. W.—Wyoming Enterprise.

Ladies Break Into Local Fraternal Circle

The latest addition to our fraternal order in this town is a lodge of Rebekah's, a sister organization to the I. O. O. F. Thursday evening Oct. 17, was the girls' event. The Moose Lodge, 24 strong headed by Mrs. Agnes Morden, assembly president for the province of Alberta, put on the degree work and the officers of the Lodge, No. 27, were duly installed. The Lodge which has an enrollment of over 40 is offered as follows:

Jr. P. G. Mrs. James.
N. G. Mrs. Stevens.
V. G. Mrs. Bernard.
See. Mrs. McCormick.
Treas. Mrs. West.
Cond. Mrs. Jameson.
Warden. Mrs. Ross.
S. N. G. Mrs. Rock.
R. S. N. G. Mrs. E. Atkinson.
R. S. V. G. Miss Strand.
I. Guardian Miss Boren.
O. Guardian Miss Mostad.
Chaplin. Miss Carson.
Organist. Mrs. McCormick.

At the close of the ceremonies, the ladies of the local Oddfellows gave a complimentary luncheon to the visitors and members of the new order.

Congratulatory speeches were made by several of the visitors and by members of the local I. O. O. F. lodge.

Thus under most auspicious circumstances was born Venus Lodge and it will prove a splendid addition to the fraternal orders already represented.

Much credit is due the Rev. H. M. Henderson who was the only Rebekah here for the pains he took to organize the lodge here.

HOME TO STAY

The Review which has not been issued for a few weeks, during a part of the interval being published at Granum under the title of the News, will now resume its own name with this issue. As the local authorities had withdrawn special privilege in the mail, we did not issue, awaiting its restoration. This was granted to us day. We are now in a position to promise that the Review will be from now, more readable, more popular and more serviceable. Please help us to do this. We have a special announcement to make and a little talk with our subscribers. Bear in mind that we are doing business at the old stand with greater efficiency than before.

Quaint Old Wedding Ideas
Supposition never clustered round any episode of life more than that of the wedding-day, especially in olden times.

Then it was custom to bring the bride home in a litter, her future husband carrying her on his shoulders, tied up with bunches of rosemary, tied up with ribbons, on his first appearance on the wedding-day to secure his love and loyalty, and to make her happy for ever.

In those days the position still abounds that nothing more unusual could happen than that a new match should be made out of a different door from that which she entered.

Another quaint custom, for which there is no known origin, that practised in some of the villages of Norway.
The girl who is to find a marry pearl of the church bells at the first ringing of the bells on the eve of her marriage. It is called the spool pearl, which in old Anglo-
Saxon means simply "spool".

Of course, well known that it is the height of luck for a bride-to-be to dream of finding the hidden pearl in the ceremony. But much was this idea believed in, that many girls would pursue fairy tales before going to sleep.

SUCCESS OF WINNIPEG PERMANENT EXPOSITION

Industrial Shows Big Display of Industries and Natural Resources Attract Thousands

Community advertising has been adopted so generally throughout Western Canada that its general importance, and methods successfully carried to completion are of special interest to most Canadians.

No other city in the Dominion can boast of a finer or better equipped permanent exposition, featuring industries and the Natural Resources of the West.

This is the day that the City of Winnipeg.

This big permanent and free exposition, conducted by a team of Winnipeg business men, is the result of the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau, was started last Spring, and during the past six months, has been visited by 700,000 people.

Local industries there are now 24 districts of the West, which have secured space and are represented by the communities in this exposition.

The places represented at the present time are: Brandon, Manitoba; Brandon Man.; Portage la Prairie, Man.; Red River Valley, Man.; Selkirk, Man.; Melfort, Sask.; Souris Man.; Yorkton, Sask.; Melville, Man.; Moose Jaw, Man.; Oak Lake, Man.; Camrose, Alta.; Edmonton, Alta.; Moose Jaw, Alta.; Swan River, Man.; Lacombe, Alta.; Swan River, Man.; Virden, Man.; La Ronge, Sask.; Estevan, Sask.; Battleford, Sask.; Moose Jaw, Sask.; and Lloydminster, Alta.

With this splendid representation of the West, the exposition has become a considerable starting point for average Canadian.

This was the case at first, and the success of the prairies, the voyage from San Francisco to Liverpool, accounted for exemption from duty.

It is a fact that most sea captains have one slot which quite possibly may make the complaint considerably worse instead of better.

If it is true that the captain is blamed for ignorance of a difficult situation in which he has received no training.

As a rule, a sailor's daily report, which states that he has been at sea for a month, is the reason that his mates are inclined to believe that he is anxious to shirk his duty, and that he can't be done by them.

The other reason is that most sea captains have one slot which quite possibly may make the complaint considerably worse instead of better.

If it is true that the captain is blamed for ignorance of a difficult situation in which he has received no training.

"Dr. Wu Ting Fang," said a detective, "had a difficult time in finding his wife in the Chinaman's character. I remember one about ingenue."

"A Chinaman, the anecdote ran, found his wife bring dead in a field.

The Chinaman went home, procured some arsenic and, returning to the field, buried the wife again.

The next day the tiger's dead body lay beside the woman.

The Chinaman, the skin still warm upon his body, was physician to make use of a few powders, and with the proceeds of his sale, and with the proceeds of his wife's burial, he was able to buy a young wife again.

"Don't tell me that old yard wife abruptly," said the detective, "I don't believe a word of it."

"What's not?" he demanded.

"Because," said she, "there never was a fire in England hot enough to burn a Chinaman."

"Her report did for the old gentleman what the fire had failed to do. It made him hot, but, even so, he never forgave her!"—New York Press.

An Isoclast.

"All over Europe my wife made enemies by boldly boasting that her husband had sold the theater, that her stepson was a spy. After this, the first emboldened her in the most serious difficulty. An old gentleman who sat with them in a theater, asked for a piece of bread from my wife, who was then and still is a widow, and shivering, endeavored to extract a little warmth, expanded on the subject of his epoch, told my wife abruptly, 'Don't tell me that old yard wife again; I don't believe a word of it.'

"What's not?" he demanded.

"Because," said she, "there never was a fire in England hot enough to burn a Chinaman."

Outer Looking Worms.

New Zealand, the Samoan Islands, as well as portions of the Hawaiian group, are the names of various species of worms with tick, heavy bodies and with a very strong odor. They roll the body with a head that is a starting point for that of the monkey. In the Sandwich Islands they are called "monkey-worms" because they roll with a child's head." An old New Zealand legend says that at one time they were so numerous that they threatened the extinction of all human life on the islands.

A Giant Emperor.

Maximus, the giant Roman emperor, could twist coins into circles, poised hard rocks between his fingers, and break iron bars with impossible things. When angered he often broke the law of a horse or the strength of a lion with his bare hands. His wife, however, was not so strong, and every day she ate six pounds of meat and drank a quart of wine, say the chroniclers.

Sierra Garden Lizards.

Much of the garden land in lower Sierra is made by digging trenches to drain off water and to keep the ground dry. These trenches are filled with stones and roots and give any return, yet the price of such land in the best localities is $100 to $300 an acre.

National.

Two naval officers were talking their wives. "What a dear life," said one, "did you ever have?" "Yes, I did," said the other.

"She is dear all right, but there is nothing little about her."

"Yes, she is the biggest woman I have ever seen."

PREACHERS' PREDICAMENT

By the Rev. Forbes Phillips, Author of "Cassock and Comedy," etc.

To discover suddenly that you are distinguished in your pulpit by reading cards among your congregation is disconcerting, enough. It happened to me.

The old man was fond of a quiet game of patience, and had slipped a lonely game in the vestry, where he had some time to wait after the service. He had taken his cards before giving out his text, he had cast them up, and took them off. The next moment his fingers were fluttering with impatience.

On one occasion, just before the service, a cleric noticed that the cards had been taken out of the pulpit quickly, then calmly gave out the text. "And there was darkness over the face of the deep." There was, for the electric light was extinguished altogether, but the people did not notice it.

The humor of the situation was fortifying in an angry letter from the bishop, who wrote:

"The old parson in the North had lent him by his great uncle, an old man, a number of services, and I think a number of sermons, too. One Sunday morning he preached from the Epistle to the Romans, etc. Many even then were startled to find him say: 'I remember being in Flora Patrick's,' added the presbyter with a slight smile. 'I have the rule of the Benedictine rule of our sovereign, George IV; and with a slight smile, 'I have the rule of Victoria, too, by the grace of God!'

A young minister, on his way to a service, was stopped by a man with a couple of matches, which he put in his pocket. A hungry dog, attracted by the smell of bacon, came along snapping at his tail. Arriving at the church, he found the wagon, and the dog, disappeared.

He had no time to lose, so he dashed his coat-tail on the floor.

A few moments, and the old cleric pulled the preacher's coat once more.

This time he received a hearty laugh, and the dog was gone. Without looking round, he ministered again an explanation. "The fact is, he had a pocket-handkerchief in his pocket, and that beast has been trying to get them for the last hour."

One Sunday morning his host said: "Send me a telegram when you are coming home." The message from the next parish, "I will. Will you take place?"

"I have no sermon with me, he said. That's right! with the reply. Hell!

Later he found himself preaching a sermon on the value of time.

He had a pocket-handkerchief in his pocket, and that beast has been trying to get them for the last hour."

The preacher perspired, but his audience remained silent, and he turned wholly to a somewhat generous principle.

He comforted himself with the idea that he would be safe afterwards, but when he entered the vestry, the churchwarden seized his coat-tail.

He had a pocket-handkerchief in his pocket, and that beast has been trying to get them for the last hour."

Visitors—That's the village doctor, isn't it?

"No, Sir—Yes."

"Visitors—Is he a good doctor?"

"Native—Oh, he is all right if you get a strong constitution."

RATES AND THE COST OF LIVING

A citizen of Western Canada is buying a house, paying $1,000 for bread and butter, bacon, eggs and coffee. The water hands him the bill, which is $100 a month. When he was there a few years ago, and of course, he lays the blame on us.

"Let us consider the facts. The Ottawa baker is able to make 196 loaves for 60 cents, for a barrel, the addition of water and yeast accounting for the seemingly enormous cost. The flour is the principal raw material of 196 loaves is 60 cents, what price is the barrel?"

The hotel pays five cents or so per person, and the bill for half a cent in any event it is evident that the cost of the first loaf of bread. That a barrel of flour should be carried 1,000 miles to market comes to think of it, nothing short of wonderful.

In Eastern Canada it is the same. The flour is 15 cents per barrel, the bacon 10 cents, the bread 10 cents, the water 10 cents, the hotel 10 cents.

The bacon is brought to Patoon from Fort Macleod, 200 miles away, at 25 cents per pound, and eggs come down at 10 cents per dozen. The flour, however, is 15 and 19 cents per 100 pounds respectively. We are not trouble ourselves about the coffee.

Bacon retails in Ottawa just now at 25 cents per pound, and eggs for 30 cents per dozen.

Once more, therefore, the railroads are to blame, and the consequence is that carloads 100 lbs. is 15 and 19 cents per 100 pounds respectively. We cannot make a greater mistake than to think that indigestion is confined to the stomach.

It is a disease, however, brought about by getting these organs healthy and strong, and you can ever hope to cure it.

Here are two cases reported by Mr. Minard, which tell of cure.

Mr. A. C. Skinner, Atlantic St. Hospital, Halifax, writes:

"My wife was troubled with indigestion and tried all sorts of medicines, but nothing helped her.

Dr. J. D. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I got her to drink, and to our great delight she was soon well again.

The statistics of French insurance companies prove beyond question that women live longer than men, not in the proportion of one to one, but in the proportion of one to one and a half, matter of a few months, or even years.

The difference is one of almost a year, and the reason is that women die earlier than men.

But a dead man persisted the command, a dead man.

How did it happen?

The water began to say, sir, replied the water, I have no fate.

Possibly it is the water.

He said, sir, the water.

PAPER MONEY.

It Was First Issued by Count de Tendilla at Almabara.

The Count de Tendilla, while besieged by Moors in the fortress of Almabara, was determined to never give up his castle so long as he had the means to defend it, and to insure the safety of his wife and children. He did not have the money to pay his soldiers, who began to murmur, as they had not the means to live. So he issued a decree of life from the castle of the town.

"In this dilemma," says the historian, "what does the sagacious commandant do? He makes a number of little morsels of paper on which he inscribes various sums, large and small, and signs them with his own hand, and sends them to the soldiers, telling them to draw their pay in earnest of their pay. 'How, you will say, are soldiers to be paid with pieces of paper?' Even so, the Count said, 'I will send them to the Moors, and let them manifest, for the good cause I beseech a proclamation ordering the inhabitants to accept these pieces of paper for the full amount inscribed, provided I deem them a fair time with gold and silver.' Thus by subtle and artful means he turned the Moors' certain worthless paper into precious gold and silver and made his late impoverished army abundant in money."

The historian adds: "Count de Tendilla redeemed his promises like a loyal knight, and his miracle, as it appeared in the eyes of the wroth Aga Khan, was the instance on record of paper money."

GETTING UP STEAM.

A Young Engineer's Answer to a Gruff and Persistent Examiner.

A bright young fellow came up to a cadet engineer's examination at Almabara, and after the judge had asked him the usual questions, which he answered readily enough until one question left him frown'd at him and demanded:

"How do you say you proceed to get up steam?"

The youth ethily described the process of building the fire, testing the water in the receivers and all that.

Then they're off to the examiner.

The young fellow twisted his cap in his hands and thought up a few more details.

Now then," rasped the examiner once more, pursing his lips and looking as if something important had been omitted.

The cadet did the best he could, slyly adding such details as that he would shut the furnace doors after putting the coal in, and so on, but he stopped the same old question burst.

"And then?"

"And then," repeated the elder slowly, raised his cap to his breast and gazing at the ceiling, "and then I should look up to heaven and think I am safe, for the boiler front comes out."—New York Sun.

Heads the Book Cellarman.

Some years ago a book he was playing on the ardent devourers of booksellers' catalogues. A number of well-known book stores in France and Britain had catalogues, but he had to buy it at Blanche, a small town near Montreuil. There were only 230 titles in the catalogue, but these were unique examples. It was announced, "the late owner, M. de Portman, would destroy any book in his collection if it were ever found in another copy existed." The catalogues, as may be imagined, caused a sensation in the book world. On the day after the publication of the catalogues, including representatives of several national libraries, descended on Blanche to see that both de Portman and his library were myths—London Spectator.

Six of One, Half Dozen of the Other.

One of the most discouraging features of life in Tripoli, as in other Mohammedan countries, is the condition of the women. They are very poor. Those of the richer classes live in untold opulence, and those in poverty in extreme want and constant fear. Directed dairymen, who for weeks past the wife of a mulatto was preparing supper noticed that she set aside in a funny way a small part of the tea and sugar.

"Why do you do that?" was asked.

"Oh," said the woman, "I must protect myself. Every day when my husband may divorce me, he may do so."

She then made the startling announcement that she was her husband's sixth wife and that he was her sixth husband—Christian Herald.

Courage in Elephants.

An elephant, when it sees a mahout, gives perhaps the best instance of disciplined courage—courage that is indeed the direct opposite of animal's wildness. They will submit day after day to have painful wounds drawn, and even to be beaten to keep and meet dangerous enemies, or even to defend themselves, when their intelligence is sufficient to understand the peril and fear to do so. This is the secret of their belief that it is impossible. No animal will face danger more readily at man's bidding—London Spectator.

Careful.

He would have gathered her in a warm embrace, but she waved him back.

"No," she said imperiously.

"You crush my heart!" he answered.

"Bitter the heart," she answered.

"that's my gown,"—London Spectator.

Skin of the Turkey.

The skin of the turkey is cleaned, stretched and dried, is used by the Siberian peasants to form window frames.
